DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicants' 12/08/2006 Amendment, which directly traversed the rejection of the claims of the 09/08/2006 Office Action are acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 2-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fuhrer et al (6,532,407).

Regarding claim 2, Fuhrer et al disclose a condition change estimation module (i.e. evaluation device and detection device) that estimates the change of the road surface condition, based on a variation in period of a time change of the measured rotation angular acceleration that increases to or over a predetermined reference value (i.e. threshold values) (Fig 1 "12, 13"; Fig 3a, 3b "S1, S2, -S1, -S2"; at least col 2, line 35). Although Fuhrer et al do not explicitly disclose a rotation angular acceleration measurement module that measures a rotation angular acceleration of a drive shaft; however, Fuhrer et al disclose an acceleration measurement module (i.e. acceleration sensor) for measuring the longitudinal acceleration and/or rotational acceleration of the vehicle (Fig 1 "10"; col 1, lines 40-46) which is an equivalent structure known in the art for measuring the vehicle acceleration. Therefore, because these two acceleration measurement were art-recognized equivalents at the time the invention was made, the selection of any of these known equivalents to measure the acceleration of a vehicle would be within the level of ordinary skill in the art.

Regarding claim 3 and based on the applicant's description of the predetermined rate in the 12/08/2006 Amendment (Remarks, page 7, 1st paragraph), it would be obvious that Fuhrer et al invention would be concerned with the condition change estimation module estimates the change of the road surface condition, in response to a variation in period of a time change of the measured rotation angular acceleration at or over a predetermined rate (Fig 1 "12, 13"; Fig 3a, 3b "S1, S2, -S1, -S2"; at least col 2, line 35).

Regarding claim 4, Fuhrer et al disclose the condition change estimation module estimates an abrupt increase in friction coefficient on the road surface, when the period of the time change of the measured rotation angular acceleration in an opposite peak detected immediately after a first peak, which appears after an increase of the rotation angular acceleration to or over a predetermined reference value, is shorter than the period of the time change in the first peak by or over the predetermined rate (Fig 3a, 3b; at least col 3, line 25). In addition, an abrupt increase in the signal / pulse which yields to the period of the time change of an abrupt increase peak is shorter than the period of the time change of the first peak is well known in the art of signal analysis.

4. While patent drawings are not drawn to scale, relationships clearly shown in the drawings of a reference patent cannot be disregarded in determining the patentability of claims. See In re Mraz, 59 CCPA 866, 455 F.2d 1069, 173 USPQ 25 (1972).

Art Unit: 3663

5. The statements of intended use or field of use (i.e. claim 2 – that estimates, that measures; claims 3-4 – estimates) and "when" clauses (i.e. claim 4) are essentially method limitations or statements of intended or desired use. Thus, these claims as well as other statements of intended use do not serve to patentably distinguish the claimed structure over that of the reference. See In re Pearson, 181 USPQ 641; In re Yanush, 177 USPQ 705; In re Finsterwalder, 168 USPQ 530; In re Casey, 512 USPQ 235; In re Otto, 136 USPQ 458; Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ 2nd 1647.

See MPEP § 2114 which states:

A claim containing a "recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from the prior art apparatus" if the prior art apparatus teaches all the structural limitations of the claim. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ 2nd 1647

Claims directed to apparatus must be distinguished from the prior art in terms of structure rather than functions. In re Danly, 120 USPQ 528, 531.

Apparatus claims cover what a device is not what a device does. Hewlett-Packard Co. v. Bausch & Lomb Inc., 15 USPQ2d 1525, 1528.

As set forth in MPEP § 2115, a recitation in a claim to the material or article worked upon does not serve to limit an apparatus claim.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 2-4 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

7. The cited prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
